Today, Jay Sourwine, Counsel of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, contacted you and advised that Senator Eastland, with whom we have had favorable relations and who heads up this Committee, is very desirous of reprinting the portion of our Annual Report on internal security in a Senate document. He intends to have 18,000 copies of it printed. The portion of our Annual Report for the 1962 Fiscal Year in which he is interested is entitled "Protecting Democracy" which runs from page 25 through page 32. It is noted that our Annual Report was released to the public on October 17, 1962.

This appears to be a splendid opportunity to bring to the attention of a wider segment of the public our accomplishments in the field of internal security and to point up the tremendous challenge this Nation faces in the fight against communism.

RECOMMENDATION:

That someone in your office contact Jay Sourwine, advise him that we have no objection to the reproduction into a Senate document of the internal security section of our Annual Report and furnish him the attached copy of the Annual Report with the pertinent portion marked.

Sourwine
